The Trip to Grandma's House

I love going to my grandma's house! She lives in the countryside, surrounded by beautiful trees and flowers. Every summer, my family drives to grandma's house for a visit. We spend our days exploring nature, picking fresh fruits from the garden, and playing games in the backyard. Grandma always makes delicious homemade meals, and we enjoy spending time together as a family.

What is the main, or central, idea of the passage?

- A. Visiting grandma's house in the countryside is fun because of nature, fresh fruits, games, and family time.
- B. The passage talks about going to school.
- C. The author enjoys playing games in the backyard.

Main Idea:

A. Visiting grandma's house in the countryside is fun because of nature, fresh fruits, games, and family time.

Option A is correct because it tells us that the author loves going to their grandma's house in the countryside. They enjoy being surrounded by nature, picking fruits, playing games, and eating together as a family. This summarizes the main idea of the passage, which is about the fun and happy times spent at grandma's house.
